

CASE STUDY:

Office App

Office App is an advanced engagement platform for professionals in offices. The company design and develop their product based on client feedback, data, and trends and offer their services via a mobile app for the best possible experience to its tenants. Office App was founded in 2014 and is headquartered in Amsterdam, with offices in Frankfurt & London.

OBJECTIVE:

Office App are continuously growing and expanding, they employed LMRE to assist with the search of Senior Sales Manager in their French team.

SOLUTION:

LMRE has previously worked successfully together with Office App. In 2019 the team helped place the Head of Sales for the UK market. LMRE was approached to fill the role of Senior Sales Manager for France which came with very specific profile requirements. The candidate not only had to fit into the start-up environment and real estate industry, but also needed to match with the Office App culture. Our European team reviewed close to 1500 profiles across the French office market in order to find the suitable fit for the company and the role.

FUTURE PLANS:

LMRE looks forward to continue supporting Office App as they progress on their journey of growth and expansion.

“The PropTech industry is a niche market within the tech scene. With the support of LMRE and the amazing dedication of the team, we are able to get in contact with very good candidates. We are really happy with how fast they introduced solid candidates to us and appreciate their responsive communication style. LMRE always meets our expectations, as they are involved and very good at following up. This makes it a pleasure working with them!”
